School of Art & Visual Studies Building

★ Located at 236 Bolivar Street which runs between South Upper and Broadway. The building sits between South Hill Station condominiums and Tolly Ho Restaurant. (On many maps, the building is still called “University Lofts.”)

★ Enter through the entrance closest to Broadway (detailed parking information is below)

★ The Ceramics studio is on the first floor to the right after you enter the main atrium area (Rooms 140-142)

★ The Fiber studio is located on the second floor just above the Woodshop. Take the elevator just inside the Broadway entrance and you will come out in front of the Fiber studio (Room 229)

★ The Painting and Drawing rooms are on the second floor just past the Fiber studio. Take the elevator just inside the Broadway entrance and you will come out in front of the Fiber studio (Room 229). Turn right and continue down the hallway. Room 250 is just around the corner from the elevator to the right. You will see Rooms 227 and 225 on the left as you walk down the hall. Room 215 is further down the hallway. Turn left into a small hallway after you have passed Room 225 and you will see Room 215 to the right.

★ The Digital Media labs are located in the east wing of the building. Take the elevator just inside the Broadway entrance and turn right. Continue down the hall, past the top of the large wooden stairs to your right. Go through the blue entranceway and turn left to get to Room 204 or right to get to Room 212.

★ The Photography Studio (Room 222) is to the right after you’ve passed through the blue entranceway. Turn right again and go over the “bridge” to enter the Photography suite.
Handicapped access: There is no handicapped access from the Bolivar Street door, but the Broadway entrance is fully accessible. Elevators are located just to the right as you enter from Broadway, and straight ahead at the end of the main atrium.
