

_____, a student in the PhD program in Musicology and Ethnomusicology, is planning to take the Common Examinations at the beginning of the next semester. The Division of Musicology and Ethnomusicology requests an exception to the policy that the student must have a complete Doctoral Advisory Committee before taking these exams. The core of the committee, consisting of three members from the Division of Musicology and Ethnomusicology, and one member from the Division of Theory and Composition, has been established, as indicated below. The best interests of the student would be served by waiting to appoint the outside member until after passing the Common Examinations. Since the selection of the outside member is based on the student's dissertation research area, which is not yet fixed, doing so now would be premature. The outside member will be appointed by the beginning of the student's final year of classes.
